The University of Toronto Concert Band

The University of Toronto Concert Band (founded in 1964) and its companion ensemble, the Wind Symphony, give yearly concert series in the MacMillan Theatre of the Edward Johnson Building, and frequently perform off-campus.

The Wind Symphony was the featured university ensemble at a concert in Roy Thomson Hall in 1982 sponsored by the Ontario Music Educator's Association, and gave a concert of Canadian band music at the 1987 National Conference of the College Band Directors' National Association at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois (the only Canadian band ever featured at a CBDNA conference). A recording of this concert was released by Crest Records. They have performed for the Ontario Band Association and at universities and high schools in Canada. Many of their concert performances have been broadcast on CJRT 91.1 FM.

The Concert Band and Wind Symphony have an ongoing commitment to commissioning and performing the works of Canadian composers, and their numerous first performances include works by John Weinzwieg, Tibor Polgar, Gary Kulesha, and Donald Coakley. Student solosists are often featured on concerts, as have been distinguished artists like Lois Marshall and Gordon Sweeny.

Stephen Chenette, conductor

Stephen Chenette became a professor at the Faculty of Music in 1972. In addition to teaching trumpet, orchestral repertoire for winds, and brass chamber music, he serves as a conductor of the Concert Band, Wind Symphony and Brass Choir. After graduating from the Curtis Institute of Music, He performed for sixteen years in major symphony orchestras, holding the position of principal trumpet with the Minnesota Orchestra, Boston Pops, St. Paul Chamber Orchestra, and Denver Symphony. He has studied conducting with Leonard Bernstein, Frederick Fennell, Hans Swarowsky, Richard Lert, Jean Morel, George Trautwein, and William R. Smith.
